

Advice for the Elderly

Advice for the Elderly

We all have the right to manage our own money and make decisions about our affairs. However, our ability to do this may decrease as we go through life. This may happen through illness or disability, or we may just become less resilient and able to deal with our affairs the older we become. Whatever the reason, there are practical steps you can take now to prepare for what may happen in the future, and we can help you with these.

At Fraser Dawbarns LLP, we provide clear and practical advice about putting your affairs in order, helping you set out your wishes for the future.

Our services provide you with peace of mind so you can be confident your matters are in safe hands, and you and your family are kept informed at every step of the process. Our Private Client team offers a range of specialist services to help you or your family plan for your future, or the future of a loved one.

These include:

- Making a gift during your lifetime to reduce Inheritance Tax
- Advising on care and care fees

- Preparing Wills
- Setting up a Trust to help with tax planning, or to make provision for your family
- Putting Lasting Powers of Attorney in place to deal with your affairs if you become unable to do this yourself

Trusted Advice and Guidance

Our lawyers are members of Solicitors for the Elderly, an independent national organisation of lawyers who are committed to providing the highest quality of legal advice for older and vulnerable people, their families and carers. With five offices across Fenland, we are close to home should you need to meet with us urgently or call in to sign documents. If you can't make it to one of our offices, we will happily arrange to meet you at your home.

Costs and Fees

Our approach to legal fees is entirely transparent. Wherever possible, we will offer you a fixed fee service. If the work required is more complex, we will give you an estimated of the cost upfront and will keep you updated along the way. There are no hidden costs.
